LITTELL'S LIVING AGE,

E. LITTELL'S Co., cor. of Tremont and Bransfield streets. Boctom.

This is work is conducted in the spirit of Littell's Muccuri of Foucian Literature, (which was favorably received by the public for twenty years) because it is twice as large, and appears so often, the action only gives spirit and fireshress to it by many thiagawhich were excluded by a month's delay, but whilethus extending his scope and galactering a greater and more attractive variety, is able so to intrease the solid and substantial part of his literary, historical, and political harvest, as fully to satisfy the wants of the American reader.

The chorate and stately Essays of disc Lilia-wood's noble criticisms on Poetry, his teen political Common Life, by the sagacious Spectator, the sparkling Examiner, the judicious Athenaum, the basy and industrious Literary Gazette, the sustained with the Military and Navad reminiscences of the United Service, and with the less raticks of the Dabin University, New Monthly, Fracer's, Tait's, Ainsworth's, Hood's, and Sporting Magazines, and of Chambers' admirable Journal, the loss on unsider it beneath his dignity to bettow wit and wisdom from Punch; and, when he chinks it good enough, makes use of the University has brought. Europe, Asia, and Africa, into our neighborhood; and will greatly Africa, into our neighborhood; and will greatly Africa, into our neighborhood; and will greatly Africa, into our neighborhood; and will greatly wit and wistom from truch; and, when he imms, it good enough, makes use of the thunder of the Times.

The steamship has brought Europe, Asia, and Africa, into our neighborhood; and will greatly multiply on consections, as Merchants, Travellers, and Politicians, withall parts of the world; so that much note than ever it now becomes every intelligent American to be informed of the condition and change of foreign countries. And this not only because of their nearer connection with ourselves, but because the instinse of their nearer connection with ourselves, but because the instinse scene to be bastening, strongla a vapid process of clauge, to some new state of things, which the merly positical prophet cannot compute or foreste.

Coographical Discoveries, the progress of Colionization, [which is extending over the whole world,] and Voyages and Travels, affierd favorite matter for his selections; and, in general, the reliance with the great department of Poreign of fairs, without neglecting our own.

While the Living Age is desirable to all who to keep themselves infarned of the rapid progress of the movement—to Statement, Divines, lawyers, and Physiciaus—to men of business and man of leisner,—it will be found to be capably attractive and useful to their wives and children. gr The news from France, by the last steamer, is full of import to those who have been close observers of men and things in the new Republic, during the last two years.
Since Louis Napoleon waselevated to the Presidency, he has had but one object in view, and that is to occupy the place of his great nameseke,-to be Monarch of France. All his movements, public and private, official and personal, have been made with a view to this end. The fellow could never have been elected Constable, had it not been for his name; and he cares nothing for the welfare of the Republic. He is a shrewd, ambitious and unprincipled man; and his only object is to gratify his, own selfish desires. He will pamper the popular will, to a certain extent,-that is, so far as it will secure to him the favor of the populace, but no farther; and when he has used their sufficiently to accomplish his object, he will keep them and treat them as all other Monarchs keep and treat

Step by step he has progressed, at first rather modestly, and then boldly seeking favor in a variety of ways, ask ing for an increase of his pay repeatedly, an extension of his term of service under the protext that he desires to consolidate the Republic on a firmer basis, —then that the choice of his successor night be taken from the popule until plac-ed in the hands of the Assembly,—until, at last, it was feared at a late Review of the troops that he intended to place himself at their head, and march upon the Tuilleries, and consummate the grand crowning act of his iniquity, by Yeare no. A the slightest

We are no. cause we have never name faith in the permanency of the Repussi The day after the reception of the Intelligence of the overthrow of Louis Philippe, we emphatically declared it our opinion that this was but a temporary revolution; and rithough Lamartine and Cavaignae were then prominent candidates for the Presidency, still, Louis Napoleon would be permitted to return to France, that he would be elected President, and that before his term of service had expired, he would contrive to ussume the Monarchial reins. We were led to this conclusion from our knowledge of the volatile character of who Louis Napoleon. Time is rapidly verifying our conjectures. Although we deeply regret to feel compelled to enter tain the opinion, yet we are confident that the French people can never enjoy the blessings of a permanent Republican government. They do not possess the elements of freemen, and consequently they can never sustain a Republic, at least for the present,—and not until their nationality is 'muterially changed; and this will never occur until there are greater civil and moral revolutions in the world than we have been accustomed to know or read of, in what may be termed modern times. The doom of the world is not yet to be sounded; and that event must be much nearer at hand than it now is, before France can ever become a solid and gennine Republic.

The examination of the Public Schools will commence to morrow morning and be continued through the day and evening, at the Bellevue Hall. On renders will remember the very general interest which was felt in the examinations hat Spring; and we presume that the attendance of spectators will be very much larger now than it was at that time. We highly approve of these exhibitions of the progress of Scholars at these excellent Institutions of learning, because they give parents and all others interested an opportunity to become acquainted with the present system of Education,-and they also operate very favorably upon the pupils by inciting a laudable ambition, and urging them to closer application in their studies, in order that they may acquit themselves with credit at their public examination

Above all things it is the duty of parents to attend these exhibitions, that they may know how their children are progressing. The larger the attendance, the more of interest will the children feel in all their studies. We were astonished at the proficiency of the scholars, last Spring, that being the first exami nation which we had ever attended and we anticipate much pleasure at that which commences to-morrow. Indeed, we conceive it to be the duty of all friends of Education to encourage by their presence these public examinations, as an important feature in the present system

Bellevue Hall is sufficiently large is accommodate seven or eight hundred persons, and we hope to see this number present, at least during some of the Ex-= inioation

More Fully-The following recolutions were adopted at it recent meeting in Mississippl. They go to show how easy n thing it is for men to run mad with fully:

The Clay Burbecue. The Lexington Reporter gives a detailed account of the Clay Burbeene, at that place, on the 17th inst. It was largely attended, by all parties, but there was an incessant storm of rain throughout the day. Mr. Clay spoke nearly an hour, in response to the following teast:

Henry Clay-Kentucky, with one heart and one voice, places Henry Clay where, during the late session of Congress, he placed himself, high above the platform of party, and on this lofty eminence she proudly presents him for the admiration of the present and coming ages. This priceless honor is the gift, not of party, but of his country, for his spirit-stiring elequence, his lofty patriotisin and courage in defence of our heloved Union, the last hope of freedom and of mankind. Nobly has he won the honor---long may be wear it." His speech is not reported, the committee having applied to him for a copy for publication. Letters were received from General Cass, Senators Foote and Underwood and others, containing highly complimentary sentiments to Mr. Clay,

The "Philadelphia Saturday Guzette," the best family newspaper published in the United States. The witter says of DR. HOOFLAND'S GERMAN BITTERS:

"It is relian that we recommend what are termed Patent Medicines to the confidence and gastionage of our readers; and, therefore, when we recommend Dr. Hoodland's German Bitters, we wish it to be distinctly understood that we are not speaking of the northway German Bitters, are noised about for a brief period and then forgotten after it has done its guilty neve of mischief, but of a medicine long catablished, universally princil, and which has mut the heavy approbation of the faculty itself."

Evidence upon evidence has been received (like the foregoing) from all rections of the Union, the last three years, and the attempt stronger testimony in its keyer, is, that there is more of it used in the practice of the regular Physicians of Philadelphia, than all other neaturns combined, a fact that our easily be established, and fully proving that a reientific preparation will mere with their quiet approval when presented even in this form.
